

NAVRATRI Celebration at Sankalpan

Durga Pooja & Navratri are the most ancient and celebrated festivities in India. Navratri means nine nights. The purpose of celebrating Navratri is to enable us to get rid of the darkness that tries to engulf our lives.

The colours of these beautiful festivals were seen in full throttle at Sankalpan starting end Sept., 08, where a week was dedicated to the various themes of vibrant colours that apparently became the Dress Code for the week. The nine Navratri colors are Parrot Green, Orange, Yellow, Sky Blue, Pink, Grey, Green, Ink/ Royal blue and Red.

Sankalpanites lived upto the occasion and celebrated the colorful days of Navratri with full Gusto.

SANKALPAN

NAVRATRI Celebration at Sankalpan

Durga Pooja & Navratri are the most ancient and celebrated festivities in India. Navratri means nine nights. The purpose of celebrating Navratri is to enable us to get rid of the darkness that tries to engulf our lives.

The colours of these beautiful festivals were seen in full throttle at Sankalpan starting end Sept., 08, where a week was dedicated to the various themes of vibrant colours that apparently became the Dress Code for the week. The nine Navratri colors are Parrot Green, Orange, Yellow, Sky Blue, Pink, Grey, Green, Ink/ Royal blue and Red.

Sankalpanites lived upto the occasion and celebrated the colorful days of Navratri with full Gusto.

SANKALPAN